

Mason Mountain Wildlife Management Area

Background

Mason Mountain Wildlife Management Area is located in Mason County, approximately four miles north of Mason, Texas. It is unique among Texas' Wildlife Management Areas in that it is the only one located in the Central Mineral Ecoregion. It contains approximately 5,301 acres, representing a variety of different habitats. A blackjack oak and post oak community found on granite soils or deep sands dominates most of the Area. The northern one-third of the Area is limestone hills, supporting a community of live oak and Texas oak. An eight-foot fence to facilitate scientific investigations surrounds the entire Area.

The goals of Mason Mountain Wildlife Management Area include research of native and exotic wildlife species, habitats and ecosystems occurring in the Central Mineral Ecoregion, demonstration of various management practices to land management professionals and the management of the Area to promote a healthy and functioning ecosystem. Hunting is one of a variety of tools used by the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department to achieve these goals. In order to properly manage the habitat, deer populations are maintained at approximately 1 deer per 12-15 acres, substantially lower than much of the Hill Country.
