Big Bend Ranch

STATE PARK

A rugged mix of desert mountains, canyons and grasslands forms the dramatic landscape of Big Bend Ranch State Park, Texas' largest state park. Hugged by the Big Bend of the Rio Grande, the 300,000-acre area features spectacular rock formations, unique plants and animals and records of human occupation dating back some 11,000 years. Access is by way of a breathtakingly scenic highway that follows the river.

Camping: Primitive camping only. Drive-in sites along the river, also back-country sites. Primitive equestrian area.

Group Facilities: Two group lodges – historic Saucedo Ranch House (capacity 10) and the Bunk House (capacity 30). Meals available by reservation only.

Rafting: Run the Rio Grande and drift through spectacular Colorado Canyon.

Wildlife Watching: Great for birds and mammals (falcons, peccaries, deer).

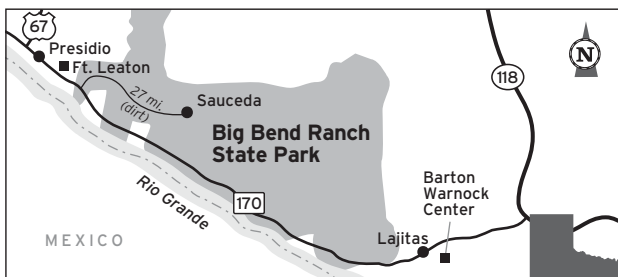

Trails: Hiking, biking, and equestrian multi-use trails.

Saucuda Ranger Station: Interpretive exhibits about park, natural, and cultural history.

Texas State Parks Store: One-of-a-kind gifts, shirts, camping supplies, books, etc.

Located in Presidio County. Park entrance is east of Presidio on F.M. 170. Saucedo facilities are accessible by way of 27 miles of unpaved road.
